LexiConn Knowledgebase

Typical Shell Commands

ls	Lists Files and Directories
ls -al	Detailed List of Files and Directories mkdir foo	Creates a directory called 'foo'
cd foo	Change to the directory 'foo'
cd ..	Go up a directory
cd ~	Go to your home directory
rmdir foo	Removes the directory 'foo'
rm file	Removes a file named 'file'
rm -f file	Forces the removal of a file called 'file' without prompting you for confirmation wget url	Download a file from a web address to directory on your site tar xfz file	Extract a tar file

$(function(){ $(".Box").css("display","none"); }); When you are logged in to your account via ssh, everything is done by passing text commands to the command line. Here is a list of the absolute most basic Linux / UNIX commands and their use:

https://support.lexiconn.com/kb/questions/298/